

It is disgraceful for the FCC to spend months on Janet Jackson and completely ignore the public trust and threat to democracy posed by Sinclair Broadcasting and others who deprive the public of compelling and informative coverage of politics. We cannot have thoughtful debate with the sad state of the public airwaves. It is a public trust of which your commission is to safeguard for the betterment of society, not the interest of corporations.